'Mirror'

Concept by Burke Roberts // presented by One Push

Broken shards of Mirror.

Minimal spaces and human beings.

When executed with discipline, the infinite opportunities inherent to this device promise a visual feast which always has, and always will, tap into the subconscious of the viewer. Through experimentation with light, composition and subject, these simple elements are simultaneously a force of familiarity and a source of originality.

Metaphors transcend words in the fractured reflection. Both literal and representative angles can bend all things.

Gender. Texture. Musical instruments. Fashion, Faces, hair and body parts...all become provocative when obscured through the anomaly of reflection.

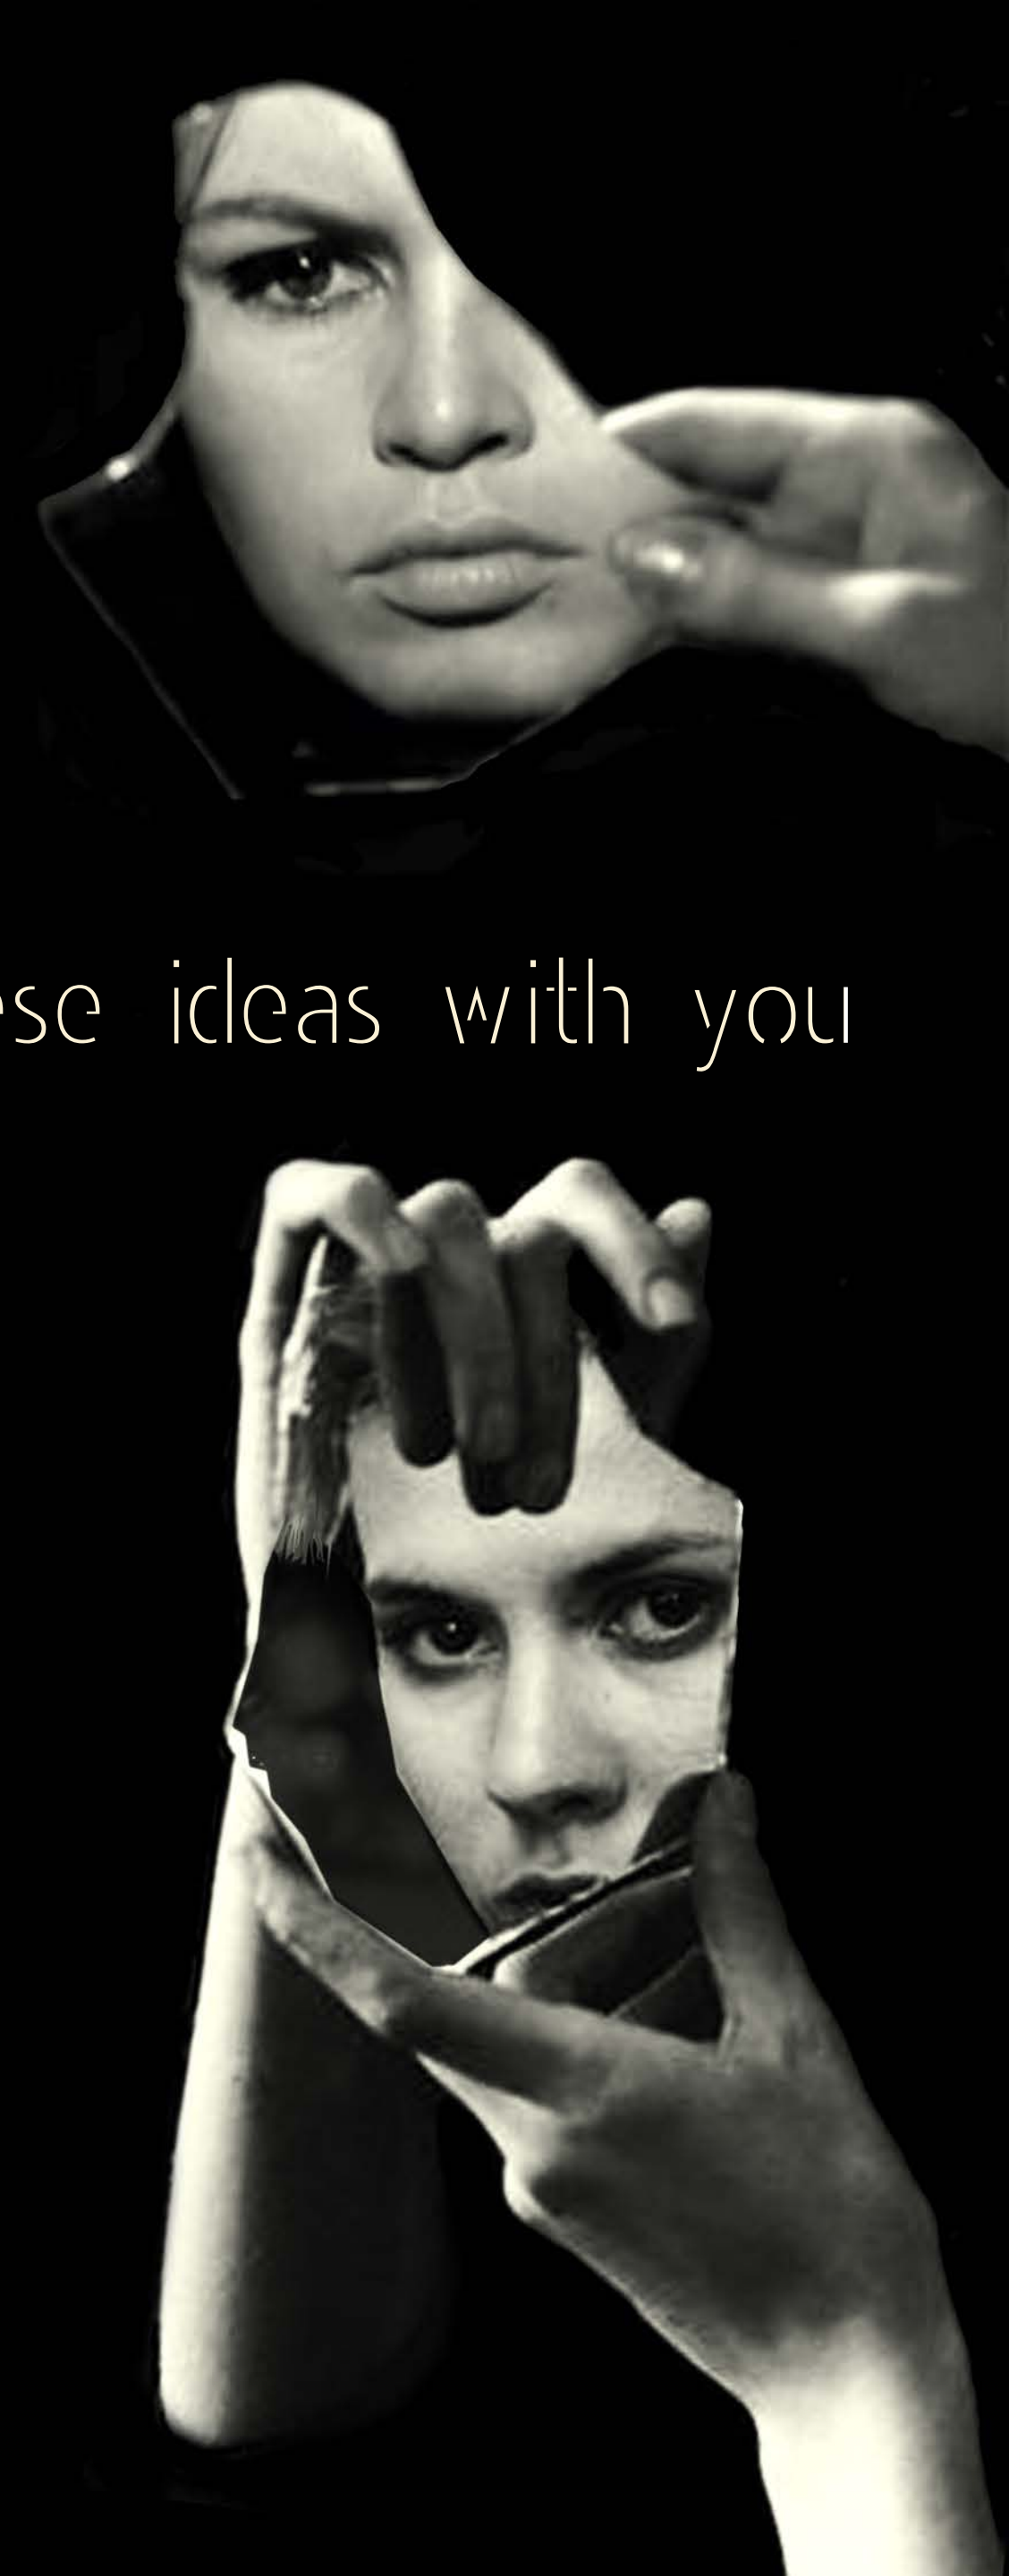

In an instant the terrifying and beautiful truth that all is an illusion is revealed through a broken mirror.

We look forward to further exploration of these ideas with you
